Biographical/Historical Note:

The Latin American Studies program began in 1969, overseen by an interdisciplinary committee. The program was attached to the Center for Intercultural Studies for several years and was also associated with the Office of International Programs.

In the summer of 1976, WKU was designated by the U.S. Office of Education as recipient of a grant to establish a Latin American Language and Area Center called the Center for Latin American Studies. This funding lasted until 1981. The program has strongly utilized cooperative agreements with Latin American educational institutions to provide additional opportunities for faculty and students.

Intercambio Internacional was the Latin American Studies newsletter beginning in 1974. It included information about the program, editorials, and articles of interest. There was a gap in publication between June 1983 and November 1984 and between June 1990 and December 1993.
